RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

1. Adaptability®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You prefer to go with the flow. You tend to be a “now” person who takes things as they come and who discovers the future one day at a time.

WHY YOUR ADAPTABILITY IS UNIQUE

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

It's very likely that you might concentrate on living in the present. Perhaps you have an ability to savor the good things in life as they unfold. Sometimes people comment on your cheerful, easygoing, or hopeful attitude.

Because of your strengths, you can sometimes be flexible about how a game is played. Perhaps having a good experience is more important to you than winning. Periodically people marvel at your ability to move on to something else after you have met with defeat.

Driven by your talents, you may trust you can deal with whatever happens. Perhaps you rely on your core values to sustain you in the face of uncertainty. The principles by which you live might permit you to accept life's unexpected and unpredictable occurrences.

Instinctively, you might prefer to deal with things as they happen rather than plan ahead. “Why rush? Why hurry?” you sometimes ask. Perhaps you understand the wisdom of the tortoise's message to the hare: “Slow and steady wins the race.”

By nature, you might deal with the requests or problems of others as soon as you learn about them.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING ADAPTABILITY

You are flexible and can quickly adjust to changing or unexpected circumstances that upset or intimidate others. Your calm response to chaos reassures others and helps you respond to what people need.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

React immediately, and be a positive force for change.

- Look for opportunities to respond to people and situations that need your attention. Your natural ability to adapt relieves pressure during stressful situations and calms coworkers and friends.
- Fine-tune how you respond to the unexpected. For example, if your job requires you to travel on short notice, learn how to pack and leave in 30 minutes. If your workload is unpredictable, practice the first three moves you will make when the pressure hits.
- Don't apologize for your spontaneity. Your willingness to seize the moment means that you won't miss out on valuable experiences and opportunities.
- Use your reassuring demeanor to soothe unhappy or fearful friends, coworkers and customers.
- Help your friends and coworkers find productive ways to deal with stress. Show them how a new approach might help them move forward.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- You're so willing to live in the moment that you might constantly shift your priorities. Be aware that frequent changes can feel endless and often unnecessary to those who thrive on structure and stability.
- You may have a tendency to miss deadlines or run late for appointments. Make sure you keep track of the most important due dates and meetings.

EXECUTING

2. Responsibility®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You take psychological ownership of what you say you will do. You are committed to stable values such as honesty and loyalty.

WHY YOUR RESPONSIBILITY IS UNIQUE

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Driven by your talents, you may refuse to shirk obligations. You might be particularly eager to fulfill your commitments. Perhaps you are described as earnest and dependable.

It's very likely that you may realize that you work hard to get ready for certain types of group discussions, practices, meetings, or rehearsals. Maybe you are more serious than some people are about studying concepts, reading materials, completing assignments, or putting your ideas in writing. Your advance planning might free you to contribute quite a bit to the team.

By nature, you might feel life is good when you are truthful about your talents, education, successes, experiences, or background. You attempt to dispel certain illusions you have about yourself or that others have about you. Maybe this is one of your priorities. When you do not pretend to be someone you are not, you might be happier.

Instinctively, you may be the team member who wants to be held accountable for the results you produce or the obligations you assume. Sometimes you can admit when you are wrong. Other times you might accept, without complaining, the consequences of your words or deeds.

Because of your strengths, you are a person upon whom others can depend. When you make a promise, you keep it. You feel obligated to honor your commitments. You do things correctly, accurately, and properly.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING RESPONSIBILITY

You have a deep sense of dedication and feel ownership for your commitments. You are a person of your word, and others know they can rely on and trust you.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Take ownership for the things that matter most to you.

- Always check your schedule and to-do list before taking on a new request. This will help you realistically meet all of your commitments without overworking yourself and demonstrate to others that you are serious about your responsibilities.
- Align yourself with those who share your sense of commitment. You will thrive when you are surrounded by others who take their responsibilities as seriously as you do.
- Be an ethical watchdog for your school, organization or community by taking action to eliminate and prevent any unethical behavior you see.
- Let your teacher or manager know that your natural sense of responsibility gives you an exceptional capacity to function independently.
- Be selective. Because you are instinctively responsible, it might be difficult for you to refuse requests from others. Sometimes you need to remind yourself to say no.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- Because you find it difficult to turn down others' requests, sometimes you overcommit. Try to manage your Responsibility talents by giving up something before you take on a new task.
- Too many obligations can keep you from spending time with the most important people in your life. Remember that sometimes, no is the best answer for the health of your relationships.

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

3. Connectedness®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You have faith in the links among all things. You believe there are few coincidences and that almost every event has meaning.

WHY YOUR CONNECTEDNESS IS UNIQUE

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Chances are good that you may feel that your life is more meaningful and you are happier when you can dedicate yourself to something important to humankind. It might be something simple rather than something grand. Perhaps you sense that your acts of kindness influence certain individuals to perform good deeds. Maybe you inspire generosity in some people.

Because of your strengths, you may socialize comfortably among a broad range of personalities. Perhaps you help strangers or lifelong friends discover what they have in common when they are upset or angry with each other. Sometimes people befriend you because you are diplomatic — that is, tactful and sensitive.

Driven by your talents, you may feel wonderful about life, especially when you become a link between individuals or groups. Sometimes these people would not have known one another if you had not stepped into their lives.

It's very likely that you occasionally help people realize they are part of the human family. With your guidance, perhaps they understand that their lives are intertwined with people they will never meet.

By nature, you sometimes rely on your awareness of people's feelings, thoughts, or needs to guide you into and through partnerships. Perhaps you consider ways to initiate, nurture, or sustain some of the linkages between individuals or groups. You might bring people together. You might help them discover reasons to cooperate or support one another.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING CONNECTEDNESS

You build bridges between people and groups. You help others find meaning by looking at the bigger picture of the world around them, and you give them a sense of comfort and stability in the face of uncertainty.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Help others see connections and purpose in everyday life.

- Use your sense of connection to build the foundation for strong relationships. When you meet new people, ask them questions to find common ground and shared interests that you can use as a starting point.
- Consider roles in which you listen to and counsel others. You could become an expert at helping people see connections and purpose in everyday occurrences.
- Help those around you cope with unpredictable and unexplainable events. Your perspective will bring them comfort.
- Show your friends and coworkers how they are connected to those around them. Point out specific examples of how their actions directly and indirectly affect others.
- Help your teammates and colleagues better understand how their efforts fit into the bigger picture. When people see that what they are doing is important and part of something larger than themselves, they will be more committed to the goal, and your team will be stronger.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- You may react more calmly and passively to others' bad news, frustrations or concerns than they would like. Be aware that people sometimes need to vent and will want you to validate their feelings more than they want a philosophical response.
- Some may perceive you as naïve or idealistic because turmoil and upheaval likely trouble you. Remember that not everyone shares your connected view of humanity or believes that every negative event ultimately affects everyone.

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

4. Empathy®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You can sense other people's feelings by imagining yourself in others' lives or situations.

WHY YOUR EMPATHY IS UNIQUE

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

By nature, you occasionally want to capture first place or be the champion. Perhaps you can read the moods of opponents. You may understand their reactions as they deal with victories, defeats, or ties.

Driven by your talents, you do not judge others' emotions. Your genuine care and concern make people comfortable sharing their stories with you. You are sincere, and you want others to know that you are truly interested and understand what they are feeling.

It's very likely that you do not need people to tell you how they are feeling. You pick up on subtleties in their behavior, and you intuitively understand their feelings of frustration, joy, anger, concern — whatever emotions you notice by watching their actions.

Instinctively, you sometimes have quick and ready insights into what individuals are sensing. Perhaps your instincts allow you to ask questions in the right way. In your dealings with people, you might know the best time to speak, listen, advise, or praise.

Chances are good that you may have quick and ready insights into the moods and emotions of specific individuals. This awareness might enhance your effectiveness as a trainer, guide, or instructor. Perhaps your sensitivity allows you to help certain people express what they are thinking or feeling.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING EMPATHY

You have great emotional depth. Your awareness of the expression, value and implications of others' emotions makes them feel like you understand them.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Appreciate and refine your gift for understanding others' thoughts and feelings.

- Create a list of great questions that help others describe their emotions and experiences. Experiment using these questions with friends. Refine your list by keeping the questions that best help others express their thoughts and feelings.
- Practice refining the words you use to name your own feelings as well as those you observe in others. Try this: Journal your emotions for one week. Stop throughout the day to capture what you are feeling. Try to use different words to describe your experience each time.
- Be sure to decompress at the end of each day. Develop a routine that allows you to unwind and relax. If you don't, at times, the depth of your emotions might overwhelm or drain you.
- Refine your nonverbal communication. Sometimes it is better to be silent. You have the talent to show other people that you know how they feel without saying a word.
- Act quickly and firmly if people are behaving in a way that is unhealthy for them or those around them. Understanding individuals' emotional states does not mean that you must excuse their behavior.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- Pay attention to your energy levels. Constantly experiencing others' emotions can be draining, so try to occasionally disconnect from all the emotions so you don't get burned out.
- Because you are so sensitive to others' emotions, some people might think you are prying or overinvolved in their lives. Be careful not to overstep when others prefer to keep their feelings to themselves.

STRATEGIC THINKING

5. Input®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You have a need to collect and archive. You may accumulate information, ideas, artifacts or even relationships.

WHY YOUR INPUT IS UNIQUE

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Instinctively, you might revel in the sensation of having done something with excellence, such as public speaking, writing, designing, sailing, gardening, investing, selling, hunting, or yoga. Your hunger for more knowledge about a skill or a subject might be satisfied through reading. Perhaps you integrate what you already understand with some insights you glean from particular books, journals, correspondence, or the Internet.

Because of your strengths, you may pay close attention to specific categories of current events. Some people merely recount what they heard, saw, or read. Perhaps you dive deeper into the topic. You might generate a few theories, concepts, or philosophies to explain some of the reasoning behind certain newsmakers' decisions. Sometimes you can gather information about events, policy statements, people, or crises. Your fresh insights might draw equally engaged thinkers into the conversation.

It's very likely that you sometimes describe reading as a pleasure, not a chore. You might acquire special insights or other knowledge, whether you prefer fiction or nonfiction. Maybe you pull together ideas from printed materials or Internet sites. You might be able to talk about complicated topics or situations by highlighting only the basic points. Some people can grasp what you are saying the first time. Why? You refrain from burdening them with every detail you know.

By nature, you attempt to surround yourself with thinkers. When you encounter them, you might share a few of your latest theories, concepts, or philosophies. You might place a special value on these conversations. Occasionally they might supply you with a new idea or a fresh perspective. Perhaps you gather information, store it in your mind, or somehow document it. You may not know at that moment how something you have heard, read, or observed will lead you to another discovery or insight.

Driven by your talents, you sometimes gravitate to discussions with students, researchers, or scholars of history. Perhaps these people serve as catalysts for your thinking about past events or significant figures.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING INPUT

You seek and store information. Your pursuit of mastery and access to knowledge empowers you to make credible and well-informed decisions.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Keep exploring; always be curious.

- Find out more about areas you want to specialize in. Consider jobs or volunteer opportunities where you can acquire and share information every day, such as teaching, journalism or research work.
- Regularly read books and articles that motivate you. Increase your vocabulary by collecting new words and learning their meaning.
- Devise a system to store and easily locate information you have found so you can access it quickly. Use whatever approach works best for you — a file for articles you have saved, a database or spreadsheet, or a list of your favorite websites.
- Position yourself as an expert. Share your exceptional archive of facts, data and ideas with others when they need help or advice.
- Seek out subject-matter experts who would be interested in knowing what you are learning and who would find it stimulating to hear about the questions and ideas you generate through your exploration.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- Unrestrained input can lead to intellectual or physical clutter. Consider occasionally taking inventory and purging what you don't need so that your surroundings — and your mind — don't become overloaded.
- You might have a tendency to give people so much information or so many resources that you can overload and overwhelm them. Before you share your discoveries with others, consider sorting out what is most meaningful so they don't lose interest.

INFLUENCING

6. Significance®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You want to make a big impact. You are independent and prioritize projects based on how much influence they will have on your organization or people around you.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING SIGNIFICANCE

You want to do important work and are determined to make a difference. You want others to respect you for your significant contribution and willingness to work hard to achieve success.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Look for opportunities to do important work where you can help others raise the bar.

- Imagine the legacy you want to leave. Picture yourself in the future. When you look back on your life, what will you have done to make the world a better place?
- Make a list of the goals, achievements and qualifications you want to accomplish, and put them where you will see them every day. Use this list to inspire yourself.
- Tell the important people in your life how valuable their feedback and support are to you. You need appreciation and affirmation, and their words can motivate you.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- Because of your strong Significance talents, people might perceive you as overly concerned about your reputation and success. Acknowledge that you will need to earn the respect of others through your actions and contributions.
- Sometimes you might mask your vulnerability or come across as overly controlled, and this can make it difficult for others to know how to support you. Consider the value of making others feel important by letting them know when you need help.

EXECUTING

7. Belief®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You have certain core values that are unchanging. Out of these values emerges a defined purpose for your life.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING BELIEF

Your core values guide you and give you purpose. You provide clarity, conviction and stability by living your values.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Honor your values; they keep you on course during tough times.

- Keep reminders of your personal mission around. In difficult situations, these reminders will help you focus on your objective and the valuable contribution you make.
- Have courage in your ability to select projects to work on. Ask about their intended outcomes and target audiences. When possible, get involved in ideas and projects that match your values.
- Try to keep an appropriate balance between your work and personal life. Both areas will benefit when you dedicate enough time and attention to each.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- Because you are passionate about your own beliefs, others might view you as stubborn or set in your ways. Keep in mind that everyone has a unique worldview, and often, it will not be the same as yours.
- Be careful not to pass judgment on others' principles and motivations. Their values and belief systems deserve your respect, even when you don't agree with them.

STRATEGIC THINKING

8. Ideation®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You are fascinated by ideas. You are able to find connections between seemingly disparate phenomena.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING IDEATION

You are fascinated by ideas. Because you enjoy looking at the world from different perspectives and are always searching for connections, you are a powerful and creative brainstorming partner.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Refine your creativity to inspire and energize yourself and others.

- Make small changes in your work or home routines. Experiment. Play mental games with yourself. You likely get bored quickly, so these adjustments can keep you engaged.
- Take time to read, explore and think. Others' ideas and experiences can energize you and help you form new ideas.
- Understand the fuel for your Ideation talents. When do you get your best ideas? When you're talking with people? When you're reading? When you're simply listening or observing? Identify the circumstances when you get your best ideas so you can recreate them.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- Your limitless thoughts and ideas can sometimes overwhelm and confuse people. Consider refining your ideas and sharing only the best so others won't reject them simply because they cannot follow your abstract thinking.
- You might struggle to follow through on the ideas you generate. Think about collaborating with someone who can help you turn your best ideas into real results.

INFLUENCING

9. Activator®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You can make things happen by turning thoughts into action. You want to do things now, rather than simply talk about them.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING ACTIVATOR

You are a catalyst. You naturally know how to turn ideas into action, and you make things happen. Your energy can be contagious and engaging.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Be the catalyst. When others are stuck, make a decision and get going.

- Record your insights or revelations when you have them so you can act on them later.
- Take responsibility for your intensity. Your drive to make things happen can be the push that people and groups need to move from discussion to action.
- Put yourself in situations where you can make things happen. Your energy and tempo will engage you and the people you work with.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- Sometimes you might charge ahead and act without a solid plan. Before making a major decision, think about challenging yourself to consider alternatives and weigh options first.
- The force of your urging people to take action might make them feel overwhelmed and pressured to act before they are comfortable. Remember that others may not feel that same urgency, and some people will need more time to think before they act.

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

10. Incluser®

HOW YOU CAN THRIVE

You accept others. You show awareness of those who feel left out and make an effort to include them.

WHY YOU SUCCEED USING INCLUDER

You notice those who are left out, and you naturally invite them in and make them feel welcome. Your ability to accept people without judgment fosters tolerance and open-mindedness.

TAKE ACTION TO MAXIMIZE YOUR POTENTIAL

Stretch the circle wider. Find ways to get more people involved.

- Look for opportunities to bring people from diverse cultures and backgrounds together. You might be a natural leader in connecting and enlightening individuals from different walks of life.
- Help those who are new to a group get to know others. You are great at quickly making people feel accepted and involved.
- Be a spokesperson for those whose voices are not usually heard. Emphasize the importance of including everyone's feelings and opinions.

WATCH OUT FOR BLIND SPOTS

- You might tend to include others to the point of unnecessary complexity, with too many opinions and conflicting efforts. Acknowledge that sometimes, you will need to be selective for the sake of clarity and efficiency.
- Even though you cast few judgments, be careful not to criticize those who belong to exclusive groups and clubs. While you likely disagree with what they stand for and might view them as elitist, remember that everyone has the right to choose whom they spend time with.

Your greatest opportunity to reach your full potential is developing and using your strongest CliftonStrengths. But it is also important to understand all 34 of your CliftonStrengths themes.

Your unique CliftonStrengths 34 profile

The themes toward the top of your CliftonStrengths 34 profile might show up regularly in your life, and the ones closer to the bottom might not show up at all.

To fully understand your talent DNA, consider how all your CliftonStrengths themes, separately or in combination, influence your work and personal life. In addition to concentrating on your top 10 themes:

- Navigate the middle. You might notice these CliftonStrengths themes in your behaviors from time to time. And you may need to rely on them in certain situations. Think of these themes as a support system you can use when you need to.
- Manage the bottom. Just as your top CliftonStrengths show you who you are, those at the bottom may tell you who you are not. They aren't necessarily weaknesses, but they are your least powerful themes. If you don't manage them properly, they could prevent you from maximizing your potential.
- Identify weaknesses. To determine if any themes are getting in your way, review the "What Is a Weakness?" section on the next page, and find out how to overcome potential obstacles to your success.

To learn more about your entire CliftonStrengths profile, see the "Your CliftonStrengths 34 Theme Sequence" section at the end of the report.

34. Individualization

Focusing on your CliftonStrengths doesn't mean you can ignore your weaknesses.

Gallup defines a weakness as anything that gets in the way of your success.

While the CliftonStrengths assessment does not mathematically quantify weaknesses, you can use your profile to understand how any of your CliftonStrengths themes might prevent you from maximizing your potential.

Your strongest CliftonStrengths are your best opportunity for success. But in some situations and with some people, these same themes can hinder your effectiveness and become blind spots.

The themes at the bottom of your profile can also get in the way of your success. They aren't necessarily weaknesses, but they likely do not come naturally to you.

To identify potential weaknesses, ask yourself:

- Does this theme ever undermine my success?
- Have I ever received negative feedback related to this theme?
- Does my role require me to use this theme, but I feel drained when I do?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you may be discovering areas of weakness. Don't ignore your weaknesses. Instead, focus on your strengths, and work to manage the areas that get in your way.

How do I manage my weaknesses?

- Claim them: Know your weaknesses and how they get in your way
- Collaborate: Ask partners for support
- Apply a strength: Use a different theme to achieve a better outcome
- Just do it: Lean in and do your best

Identify Your Unique Contribution: The CliftonStrengths® Domains

While your CliftonStrengths 34 profile helps you understand who you are, there is also power in knowing how you make things happen, influence others, build relationships and process information. The framework of the four CliftonStrengths domains — Executing, Influencing, Relationship Building and Strategic Thinking — is another way to think about your CliftonStrengths and how you contribute when you join, create or lead a team.

The best teams are made up of individuals who understand their own — and others' — unique contribution to the team. This awareness and appreciation empowers the team to be more cohesive, versatile, productive and engaged.

However, be careful not to let the four domains limit your thinking. If you don't have any top themes in a particular domain, don't worry. That doesn't mean you can't think strategically or build relationships, for example. Everyone accomplishes tasks, influences others, builds relationships and processes information. You just use your stronger themes in different domains to get to the same outcome.

The next page shows you how your unique CliftonStrengths profile sorts into the four domains. Knowing which domain you lead with can help you understand your most powerful contribution.

The CliftonStrengths Domains

EXECUTING

People with dominant Executing themes make things happen.

INFLUENCING

People with dominant Influencing themes take charge, speak up and make sure others are heard.

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

People with dominant Relationship Building themes build strong relationships that hold a team together and make it greater than the sum of its parts.

STRATEGIC THINKING

People with dominant Strategic Thinking themes absorb and analyze information that informs better decisions.

You lead with Relationship Building CliftonStrengths® themes.

You know how to build strong relationships that can hold a team together and make the team greater than the sum of its parts.

This chart shows the relative distribution of your unique CliftonStrengths 34 results across the four domains. These categories are a good starting point for you to examine where you have the most potential to perform with excellence and how you can best contribute to a team.
